Project Description

Youth Can Lead Youth Project concentrates on non-formal education methods that support creative learning to strengthen resilience for change and foster social inclusion. These methods push multiple intelligences related to the fact that individuals share different identities and ways of learning and address well the needs of intrapersonal and interpersonal persons.

There are many methods used in the youth field and each organization and country uses different methods in different fields.

There is a need to bring these methods together and to use this methodology for young people to become youth workers.

There is a constant need for youth workers to exchange ideas and learn from each other to adopt new methods to implement on their own premises, especially in situations like migration, racism, radicalization, or unforeseen changes like the pandemic that are arising and might not have been in the focus of the daily work of the youth worker so far.

Project Objectives

The main goal of this project is to train these young people as youth workers.

Objectives:

- To increase the awareness of young people in the youth field
- Informing about good practices in their country and teaching different methods
- To help them gain self-confidence
- To teach and encourage how to communicate with young people from different backgrounds
- To apply the developed methodology to young people
- To raise awareness about active citizenship among young people
- To encourage young people to change themselves and others

Expectations From Participants

This Activity offers a training to young people , who wish to be better able to undertake leadership roles in their communities! Participants of this activity are expected to activate a small group of peers when they return to their home country , present them with the methods they learned in the LTTA and accompany them to the related Youth Exchange in August 2024.

More specifically:

Mobilization of Peers : After the LTTA , participants are expected to take an active role in inspiring a small group of peers in their home country to take action in community matters as well.

Sharing of learned Methods: A key part of the participants ' role is to share and present the methods they have learned during the training . This involves organizing sessions, workshops or simple gatherings where these methods are discussed or demonstrated.

Participation in the follow-up Youth Exchange : Participants in the LTTA , are highly encouraged to accompany their group of peers in the Youth Exchange in August 2024 . During the Youth Exchange , participants in practical activities , including a special session where they will collaboratively create an action plan under the guidance of experienced youth workers. This plan is intended to equip them with the skills and confidence needed to organize and execute their own local events upon returning home (during Autumn 2024).

The participants' flight tickets will be paid by the sending partners.
